Miller Chosen School Board Head— Other Appointments Announced

Old Board disbanded Thursday night — New group immediately forms — Mrs. Florence Newman is clerk and Mrs. Lillie Chatfield is collector—Miss Helen Smith resigns.

Maurice E. Miller was re-elected to the presidency of the Addison Board of Education at the reorganization meeting held Thursday night in the school building. This is the third term as president and 14th year as member of the board, being topped only by Clark Baxter in years of service.

Appointments
Mrs. Florence Newman was re-elected clerk of the board at $200 per year and Robert Apgar was re-elected treasurer, a non-remunerative position. The positions of collector and clerk were divided this year as provided by state law and Mrs. Lillie Chatfield was appointed collector. This position is a fee-paying one. Elmer Bovee was appointed census enumerator at $15. Dr. Stuart H. Bean was re-appointed medical inspector at $200 per year.

The First National Bank of Addison was designated the official depository for school funds. Meetings will continue to be held the last Tuesday of each month at 8 o'clock in the office of Principal Irving R. Gladstone.

Helen Smith Resigns
The resignation of Miss Helen Smith was received and accepted. She was nominated and elected at the annual school meeting and election without having been consulted. In her letter of resignation she stated she "appreciated the confidence placed in her by the voters and felt that she had served her time in the schools of Addison." She is a retired school teacher.

The school calendar will be prepared for next year under the direction of Robert A. Willson and Mrs. Susan D. Perry in cooperation with Principal Gladstone. This will contain the names of board members, committees, faculty members, school courses offered, the school calendar for the year, requirements for graduation in school courses and other pertinent information relative to Addison High School. This will be done this summer as members feel that in the past the booklet has been printed too late to be of real value to the students, teachers and families.

The board was convened at 8 o'clock when the business of the old board was concluded. President Miller presided, Trustees Andrew W. Knebel, Dr. H. E. Auringer, Mrs. Perry, Belden Ackerson, Mr. Willson and Clark Baxter were present.

They received a letter of appreciation from Carl M. Vandenberg, thanking the members for giving him a contract to teach music here beginning in September.

Bills Audited
Bills audited and ordered paid were: Bert Elwood, work on the school cesspool, $4.40; Sisto Lumbar Co., supplies for school and industrial arts, $14.46; Henry She-lansky, gas, oil and storage, $4.49; Southern Tier News, printing financial report and budget and notice of election in paper, $24.32; American Seating Co., supplies, $13.67; Irving R. Gladstone, expenses, $2.50.

The old board then adjourned. Mrs. Perry and Mr. Ackerson having been re-elected by the voters retained their positions.

Dr. Auringer presided as temporary chairman at the opening of the new year. Upon the election of Mr. Miller, the incoming president thanked the members for their cooperation during the past year and asked for their continued support. The building committee was empowered to ask for bids for paint for the window sills and sashes and also for the corridors of the building and floors in the commercial rooms. The same committee will also hire the painters to do the work either by contract or by hour as they see fit.

Firemen's Parade Saturday Attracts Over 5,000 People to Village

Affair concludes six-day carnival and Old Home Week celebration — Westfield company awarded first prize for best in line — Knoxville had best band and Savona best drum corps and drill — Elkland had most men in line and Galetton came longest distance.

Preliminary reports indicate that the Phoenix Hose Fire Company realized $250 on their carnival and Old Home Day celebration held here last week.

The week of activity ended in a blaze of glory Saturday night with one of the finest parades seen in Addison in several years. In addition to the large group of marchers in line from nearby communities there were thousands lining the streets to view the parade. Many out of the village cars were noted in the parking spaces about the city.

In spite of the large numbers, the heavy traffic, the delays and hold up from trains, the local police handled traffic in a capable manner and no mishaps were reported.

The paraders marched south on Main, west on Steuben and east on Tuscarora, countermarching on Main street before the judges' stand at the American House.

The Westfield Fire Company was adjudged the best appearing company in line and was awarded $15 the Knoxville band was given $10 as being best band in line; the Savona drum corps was given $15 as having the best drum corps in line; Galetton Hose received $15 for the company coming the longest distance with 20 or more men in line, Elkland had the most men in line and was given $10.

The judges had a difficult decision to make to choose the best in line for three companies were tops. However, the Westfield company won on precision, step, appearance and uniform number. Harry Muller was chairman of the judges and he was assisted by Attorney Hugh Varn, William Kennedy, Llewellyn Robbins, Walter Aldrich of Addison and Harry Lewis of Elkland.

The parade was led by Colors and a color guard of Williams-Greengrass Post Legionnaires consisting of County Commander Elmer C. Bovee, William E. Newman, Homer Reynolds and Clare Chart.

The Addison High School Band augmented by former town band members was in the parade. The Elkland High School band also was in the line of march as was the Westfield High School band.

Chief of Police Earl Leavenworth was in charge of the local police and he was assisted by Owen Cass, Forrest Herrington, John Wickerling and members of the Fire Police consisting of Raymond Stewart, Casson Church, George Little, Raymond Hargrave, Maynard Allen and Lawrence Benedict. Mayor Angelo Sisto assisted by Fire Chief John O'Keefe also assisted in directing activities.

Mrs. Henry Webster was stricken ill during the parade and was treated for shock.

The Savona firemen gave a drill in front of the reviewing stand and were heartily applauded for their efforts.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

The war last week settled into an aerial battle between Britain and Germany with the British apparently holding their own in the argument. Nazi planes have assaulted the southeast coast of Britain in waves, but each attack has apparently been met with vicious counter jabs by defending planes. The Nazis have made many claims of damage done in different parts of the island but these claims have for the most part been rather general.

British planes have been just as busy as the Nazi aircraft as they conduct raids both in daylight and darkness over Germany and territory conquered by the Germans. The British name damage to oil dumps and plane plants in several German towns. Both sides deny the other's accomplishments in the raids and both sides are of course guilty of some degree of misstatement. Britain has almost surely lost heavily by these incursions of Nazi planes, but up to the present their fighting craft seem to be more than holding their own, plane for plane. Observers agree that the British haven't seen anything in the way of a Nazi attack yet and it remains to be proved the R. A. F. can cope with the clouds of planes Hitler will send before trying to invade Britain.

News of the war in the Mediterranean area contains many Italian claims of severe damage inflicted on the British fleet. The British admit loss of a destroyer and a submarine but laugh off Italian claims of damaging the great battleship Hood. They repeat their assertion of last week that the Italian fleet was encountered and it took flight for the protection of shore batteries.

Nine Old Men Challenged By John O'Keefe

John O'Keefe, postmaster, baseball fan and manager and former well-known pitcher in Southern Steuben County, is issuing a challenge to the Nine Old Men to play a baseball game here for the Red Cross on a Saturday afternoon in August.

The challenge was issued before the Nine Old Men and Merchants met Saturday. He challenged the winners of that game. Manager O'Keefe states he will bring a team on the field and no matter how old they will be under 100 years of age. And they will defeat the pick of the Nine Old Men, a team composed of several high school veterans.

This game should prove a natural to bring a large crowd of present and past baseball fans out from throughout this area. Several stars of former years in this area will be on both teams and a large following should develop. In addition this should be an attraction not only for baseball fans but for those who like tricky baseball and also for those who like some comedy in their baseball.

Definite arrangements have not been concluded between the management of both teams as yet, but based on last Saturday's game, there will be a large group waiting for this contest.

All the proceeds are to go to charity.

Parade and Elections Feature Steuben Legion Convention Tonight

Home-coming party for Commander Elmer C. Bovee in Addison—Parade at 7:30 o'clock will highlight event — All Posts in county to be represented—Hornell band will present special drill.

Tonight is the night of nights for members of Williams-Greengrass Post American Legion for they are entertaining the annual convention of the Steuben County American Legion for the first time.

The Steuben County Post was organized 20 years ago and throughout that time the annual conventions have been held in the home town of the reigning commander of the year. This is the first time that Addison has had a County Commander, the position now being filled by Elmer C. Bovee.

The local committee working under the direction of Adjutant William E. Newman and Commander John W. Russ is making elaborate plans for the convention tonight.

The first event on the program will be a dinner for the members of the Steuben County Legion, including delegates and alternates to this convention, past officers and the present officers. This banquet will be held at 6:30 o'clock in the Eagle Hotel.

The Legionnaires will then convene for the annual county meeting. The delegates and alternates will elect a new county commander, for the term of Commander Bovee expires this year. The convention will also choose delegates to the New York State Annual Convention.

Vine Child Unharmed by Day and Night Wandering in Woods

The lure for an air beacon which flashed red and white beams alternately across the hilltops led little 3-year-old Dickie Vine away from his mother Sunday afternoon on a chase that led hundreds of Steuben County people to scour the country-side Sunday night and Monday. But the least worried person of all was Dickie who spent 23 hours wandering and sleeping and found a living ready to hand in the strawberries which grew in the woods where he walked.

The child was found sitting against a tree by Kenneth Baker, 17, of Savona who had joined a party of Boy Scouts searching the woods. Miraculously enough he was unharmed, save for a few insect bites and a ravenous appetite.

Dickie Vine is the son of Clyde Vine of Addison and Mrs. Vine who has been working in Corning. The child was living with his grandparents, Baker little perturbed by the excitement he had stirred up. Mr. and Mrs. Vine took the child to a doctor in Bath to ascertain he was unharmed, and then carried him to his other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Vine in Addison.

reaching the pretty red and white light which flashed across the sky every night. Without confiding his intention to anyone he started out Sunday afternoon for the beacon tower three miles away.

About an hour after the lad was missed Sunday a message was sent to Sgt. Burnett of the State Police and searching parties began to form. CCC boys from the Kanona camp, county and state police and volunteers including Boy Scouts joined in the search which continued through the night and most of Monday. Monday morning there was a pause as Mrs. Vine went to view the remains of the little Foley boy killed by a train near Savona, thought to have been the missing Vine boy. The search ended happily when Dickie answered the shouts of a group of searchers and was espied by young Baker little perturbed by the excitement he had stirred up.

Mr. and Mrs. Vine took the child to a doctor in Bath to ascertain he was unharmed, and then carried him to his other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Vine in Addison.

WHAT A MAN IS WORTH

Informed taxpayers of Steuben County regret to see that County Commissioner of Public Welfare E. Ray Hardenbrook faces a campaign fight for renomination by the Republican party. This is to be deplored, if there is any incumbent of office in the county who deserves the united support of his party it is Mr. Hardenbrook, for he has a record for efficient administration of the office unequaled anywhere in this state.

Were he either Republican or Democrat our hat would go off to Ray Hardenbrook for his fine job of administering what is probably the most exacting office in the county. He was first elected when the job was still thought of as "County Poormaster", and he has grown up with the office during the last decade when enactment of social welfare laws has been one of the most fruitful political ladders ever climbed by office-seekers and professional politicians. During Hardenbrook's term in office the position of Welfare Commissioner has changed from the fatherly manager of a poor farm worked by the indigent, to an administrative office which reaches to the most remote corner of the county. Mandatory state laws have compelled the county to become a welfare unit in the state chain, a center for dispensing old age pensions, child support, home relief and a dozen other benefits to the penurious aside from running the old poor house and poor farm.

This enormous expansion of duties has necessarily carried with it a large increase in staff membership to take care of the multitudinous details of this exacting office. All of which has, of course, built up the expense of the welfare administration to a huge extent. That it has not mounted much higher is due to the administrative ability and strict economy of Mr. Hardenbrook who has operated the office on the old and once respected theory that a "public office is a public trust".

What is more remarkable is the fact there has been a great degree of laxity among many public officials in this same time when the Steuben County Commissioner has made an enviable record in the office. Over in Tompkins County this past year there was an investigation of the welfare office which smelled to high heaven. The Commissioner and some of his immediate family were arrested, tried and convicted. It was proved the administrator had stolen money and materials worth hundreds of dollars from the county, and thousands were spent in trying this dishonest official. Yet in spite of the fact the county attorney vigorously prosecuted the case and a jury had the courage to bring in a verdict of "guilty", the presiding judge affronted public decency by letting the culprits escape with a piddling fine.

No one will ever know exactly how much the taxpayers of this county have been fleeced by an unscrupulous man in the welfare office. But one thing the taxpayers of Steuben can be sure about is, that their Commissioner has conducted the office on a high plane of honesty which has never allowed an aspirant for his job to find a loophole to shoot through.

We know nothing against the young man who is opposing Mr. Hardenbrook in the Republican primaries. However, we do know that if the Welfare Commissioner should be defeated either in the primaries or the election which follows his successor would enter the job as a green hand supplanting an experienced, highly efficient administrator. And the ones who would pay the bill for buying whatever experience the new official gained would be Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Citizen. It would be a taxpayer's bill, whatever the cost, and no one else on the green earth would pay it.

We believe Mr. Hardenbrook will be renominated and reelected next fall. For the main opposition to his candidacy will probably come from a few disgruntled politicians who have been disappointed because political pap does not flow from the welfare office. But we do feel genuinely sorry that Mr. Hardenbrook is compelled to spend the money for renomination by his party. His salary is moderate, compared to the calibre of the man and the service he renders, and it would be little wonder if he should decide it was hardly worth while to spend considerable of his moderate salary getting reelected to a job which certainly does not pay him any more than he is worth.

It is a blessing for this country that in its hour of need its basic industries are still ready to meet emergencies, in spite of some years of vicious attacks on them for political purposes.

KEEPING THE BALANCE

Mass distribution has been of great service to the entire country—and of special service to the smaller community.

In the horse and buggy era, our possible radius of daily or weekly travel was extremely limited. Persons living in villages were forced to trade at home, no matter how high prices were in local stores, or how poor the stocks of goods offered. Journeys of even twenty or thirty miles were lengthy, and made only at rare intervals. Those were the days of real retail monopoly—the local "general store" proprietor, if he chose, could deal with his customers on a "like it or lump it" basis and they were virtually helpless.

Universal use of the automobile, coupled with the development of good roads, effected a rural revolution. In a half hour or so of driving, it was possible for the average family to reach a sizable community, served by many stores. Competition in these cities had forced prices down and improved service. By buying for a week or two ahead, the cost of the trip was more than offset. And so, little by little, local business began to drift away from the smaller centers to the larger communities.

Then mass distribution effected another revolution. The chains established outlets in thousands of small towns. Independent merchants improved their methods, and joined central buying organizations. The result was that prices in the small towns were as low as in the cities—and stocks of goods as wide and as attractively displayed. Local business began staying at home again—not from necessity this time, but because it wanted to.

Mass distribution has saved a long list of small communities from economic retrogression, and it is a powerful factor in keeping the proper economic balance between the village and the city.

A SECRET KEPT TOO LONG

Many political observers believe the President has over-played his hand in keeping as a mystery for so long his intentions regarding a try for a third term. As this is written on the eve of the Democratic National Convention only one man, Jim Farley, is able to say definitely that he knows what Mr. Roosevelt's intentions are as to the nomination—and he won't divulge the secret.

The result of the secret being kept so long is, that it no longer is a secret Mr. Roosevelt will be nominated this week. He has allowed his followers such a free hand on the subject and has done nothing himself to halt the drive for Roosevelt delegates so that it is a foregone conclusion the convention will give him the nomination on the first ballot. The only secret remaining is whether or not he will accept the nomination. If he does accept that will be no surprise for a majority of those giving it a thought believe he will, and the announcement when it comes will be an anti-climax to the long concealed intentions of the President.

On the other hand if Mr. Roosevelt refuses the nomination his party will be thrown into a state of total confusion. His attitude in keeping the matter secret has thrown into eclipse every man who was considered a possible candidate up to the first of the year, relegating them to something in the same category of an "also ran". The season is now late and to attempt to build up any man at this date would be to have him start the campaign with two strikes and no balls to his credit. Hardly an informed Democrat can be found who will honestly say any member of his party now has a Chinaman's chance against Willkie except the President.

Mr. Roosevelt has for long had the reputation of being able to do the dramatic at just the right time to steal the headlines, but his luck seems a bit over-strained in that respect now. The dramatic turn which the Republican Convention took in nominating Willkie has brought the latter so vividly before the public eye the President can hardly frame his own pronouncement of acceptance (if he accepts) in terms which will now obliterate the memory of that event. The Republicans ran into a streak of luck during their convention, in that the European war happened to sag into a quiet phase for the week as the Nazis napped up France in preparation for their threatened invasion of Britain. If Hitler should take a fancy to start his Battle of Britain this week while the Democratic Convention is in full swing the Roosevelt flair for grabbing headlines would surely hit a tough snag, for the whole world is watching intently for that event.

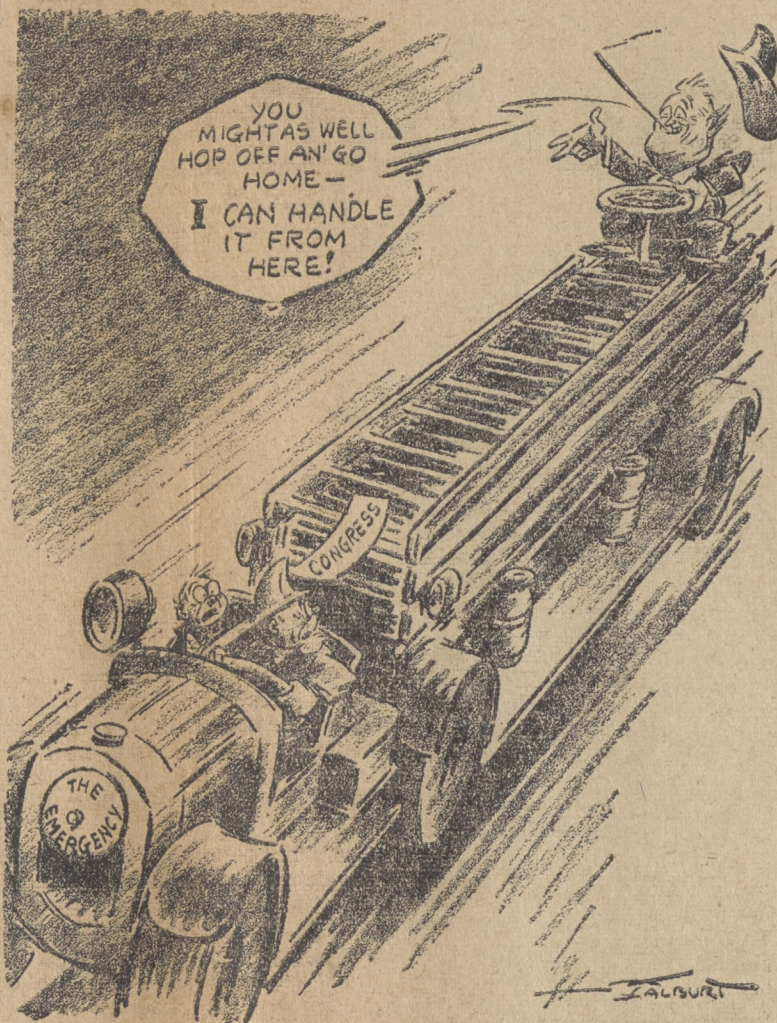

In any event several signs point to the possibility Mr. Farley and that beloved old southern Democrat Carter Glass may be planning to do a little "show stealing" themselves. All of which adds to the fact the President has waited too long to make his announcement, until the greatest dramatic appeal is forever gone.

WORLD ART COMES TO AMERICA

This year the main cultural exhibit at the New York World's Fair, as it was last year, will be the art exhibition. The current collection covers four centuries, and consists of 400 European and American paintings valued at $30,000,000. Practically every great name in art, from Titian and Rembrandt to Degas and Renoir, is represented.

Millions of Americans will experience the deepest of aesthetic pleasure when attending this magnificent exhibit. And, more than that, it is a fitting thing that so many of the shining masterpieces of world art should be gathered in this country at this time. Bombers are not attacking our cities. It may be, tragic as the thought is, that concentrating art masterpieces in our land may save them from destruction.

BUT CHIEF!

Talburt, in the Washington Daily News.

Many amusing things happened during the Phoenix Hose carnival here last week. While this was not amusing to the chief actor, it brought smiles to many. A young man—about—town went riding on the feris wheel, which not thought too high. He was with a girl friend. She noted his paleness, then his wan smile. The result was a complete case of sickness. I guess he felt like the seasick tourist.

The value of working fire extinguishers was rated last week. A fire started across a street with a Welles Hose truck extinguisher to quench a blaze on the Sticker car. He pumped the extinguisher and nothing came of it, indicating the extinguisher had been neglected. This also proves the value of frequent fire drills and inspections of equipment. Seems to be a case of everybody's business is no one's business.

I hope the merchants of the community will put their flags out, Thursday, tonight, and also that those along Front, Tuscarora, Park Place, Main Street, lower south and lower Steuben streets will hang flags out in honor of the American Legion County Convention. This is the first time the honor of entertaining the County Legion has come to this community and we should make much of it.

So much has been happening here during the past two weeks that I have had a hard time keeping up with things. For example Saturday acted as cashier at a ball game greeted the Fresh Air children, talked with many people about many things, judged the firemen's parade, greeted company at home and attended the carnival, then sat up half the night talking. Oh, me.

And speaking of the Fresh Air children—I'm just sorry Addison did not receive more of them. They are the cutest bunch of kids and as far as I can learn seem to appreciate all that is being done for them. It is a wonderful opportunity to do something the American way.

A Michigan editor tells of the time 10 years ago when if a man walked down the street with a bar of gold and a quart of whiskey he would be arrested for carrying the whiskey and now if he walks down the street with the same two items he would be arrested for illegal possession of gold and permitted to keep the liquor. Times do change.

Members of the Phoenix Hose Company are to be commended for leaving Valerio Parkway, South Street and adjacent streets in such a fine condition after their carnival of last week. The vicinity looks cleaner than when they took over.

The value of the Boy Scout movement is often emphasized. However, when it is brought home to us, we realize it more. In the most recent case in this vicinity the finding of "Dickie" Vine, near Thurston last Monday afternoon by a Boy Scout deserves commendation. Granted that any group of boys would have gladly engaged in the search. But the organization of getting them, training them and having them know what to do is a different matter. Here is where Scout training is valuable.

That's all.

SAFETY ADVICE

No. 2—Danger Hours
Here's a message for all motorists and pedestrians! Do you expect to be out driving, or walking between six and seven o'clock tonight?

Then be doubly careful! Because traffic records show that 6 to 7 is the very hour in safety. There are more accidents between 6 and 7 than during any other hour of the day.

You can see why. More people hurrying home. More people are tired from the day's work. Senses are not so keen. Nerves are apt to be badly worn.

So be especially careful of your own safety—and that of others—between 6 and 7 o'clock.

The next most dangerous hour is between 7 and 8 in the evening. Late goers-home and theatre-goers are all in a rush. So be extra careful, too, between the hours of 7 and 8. Between 6 o'clock and midnight for safer driving, and safer walking. Dusk is approaching. Vision is limited. Lights are confusing. Crowds are crossing the streets and traffic is heavy. So drive and walk with care!

This does not mean, of course, that the other 18 hours of the day are all free and clear of danger. You must be careful every minute of every hour.

If you are driving, remember you are in control of an immense weight—thousands of pounds in motion. Even if it is traveling only five miles an hour, and even if you just brush a person or another car with it, think with what force that heavy moving body hits another object.

If you are walking, remember that no human being can possibly come off best in a collision with a moving automobile. Don't let one hit you—don't walk into the side of one. Don't leave the curb until the light turns green. Don't cross against the red light. Even when it's your turn to cross, look to left and right before you step into the street.

Another word to drivers: Be especially careful near schools and playgrounds, whether it's a school day or not. If you see children playing ball or roller skating, proceed with caution. In the excitement of their games they may run out into the streets after the ball or chase out after a playmate.

Drive carefully, too, near theatres. People coming out of theatres are jostling each other. Often they are still living in the world of the stage or the screen. They should be careful. You should drive past such crowds with extra care.

Of course, no right-thinking driver, anywhere, at any hour of the day or night, will run against the traffic signal. No sensible driver will exceed the speed limit. Every careful driver will respect the rights of others just as he wants his rights respected. He will drive courteously—and he will be well rewarded, because courtesy means safety!

State Issues Health Books

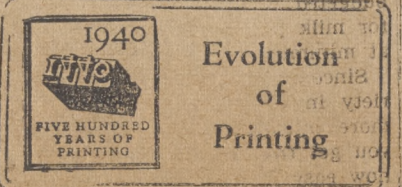

Albany, July 15—Three new pamphlets, one dealing with hay fever and ragweed; another, on the fly as a menace to health; and the third on the building and maintaining of sound teeth, have just been published by the New York State Department of Health and are ready for free distribution, it was announced today.

The hay fever and ragweed pamphlet explains allergy, first steps toward treatment for persons suffering from allergy, ragweed hay fever, and gives a description of ragweed, the description of the plant throughout the State and ragweed control suggestions. Illustrations in the pamphlet include drawings of both common and giant ragweed, the ragweed leaf, and a common ragweed pollen grain. Included with this pamphlet is a map showing rag weed-free areas of the State.

The pamphlet on the building and maintaining of sound teeth explains the development and growth of the teeth, the formation of permanent teeth and the first permanent molar, how to build sound teeth, what causes dental decay and how to take daily care of the teeth. This pamphlet includes many illustrations on the proper methods of brushing teeth, tooth formation, and how tooth infection may spread to other parts of the body.

The third pamphlet, The Fly—A Menace to Health, emphasizes the necessity for homes to be protected against flies, how flies may be controlled, and how fly breeding on the farm may be prevented. It gives simple rules for use of chemicals in the elimination of flies and explains how flies multiply rapidly under certain conditions. This pamphlet is also illustrated with pictures of fly eggs, fly larva, and pupa of the fly.

Persons wishing to obtain any one of these pamphlets without charge may do so by writing to the Division of Public Health Education, State Department of Health, Albany, New York.

A paramount requirement of good printing was a press for bringing the linked metal type into contact with each other. Gutenberg put into practice the principle of the press, already operative in the form of screw presses for pressing olives and wine grapes.

The very earliest specimen of printing is still a matter of scholarly dispute, but the fame of Gutenberg most certainly rests on the celebrated "Gutenberg Bible," a 42-line Bible, so-called from the fact that there are 42 lines to the column on most of its pages. Commonly regarded as Europe's first printed book, it was completed about 1456. Out of swaddling clothes, printing developed by leaps and bounds until, by 1501, it had spread over most of Western Europe. The number of readers increased enormously, and spoken languages became so popular that they began to displace the dry-as-dust Latin in which most of European literature till then had been composed.

The first printed book in the English language was the "Recuyell of the Hystories of Troye" which was printed between 1474 and 1475 by William Caxton, first English printer and editor.

Printing in the New World made a whirlwind start less than a century after Gutenberg invented the art. In 1539 Juan Pablos, a printer at Seville, Spain, crossed the ocean and opened up a printing shop in Mexico City as a branch of his main office.

(Next week beginning of printing in Massachusetts).

The Yankee big guns are booming again and whether the powder can bring them through is a question. The Big Stickers are thumping them hard and often but they are still in fourth place in the American League. And many in this vicinity seem to feel that is a good place for them to stay.

A New Note In National Politics

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

One of the most striking aftermaths of the recent Republican Convention at Philadelphia is the almost unanimous conclusion among trained observers that a new note had been struck in national politics.

In the nomination of Wendell Willkie, such observers agree, delegates and party heads had heard and responded to the voice of the American people calling for a leader.

Not only from crowded galleries, but by mail and wire from the folks back home, came the insistent demand. And when it was heeded, the volume of approval from both the press and the people was overwhelming.

Now, it has been asked, did this widespread demand for a leader with neither political experience nor organization arise? Much of the answer may be found in the message of the nominee himself.

Consistently for many months, Willkie has been reaching the public with a message of confidence in the achievements of the American Nation and the ability of the American people. And after seven years of being told by office-holders that Americans had reached the limits of their development; that their only hope was to abandon our tradition of self-government and surrender all authority to the politicians in temporary power; the people welcomed such expression of self-reliant Americanism.

After listening for seven years to a reiterated philosophy of defeatism, they responded with true American spirit to a man from the people who was not afraid to tell them that:

"We believe in ourselves—the American people. We believe in our own ingenuity, our own energies, and our own sense of fairness..."

"I'll never seek to lead people down the soft way. I will tell people, not about the national grab-bag, but about the satisfaction that comes with work and service and achievement..."

"We do not want monopolistic government any more than we want monopolistic industry..."

"We must put into office the kind of government in which we have confidence and which, in turn, has confidence in us—a government that will waken and liberate the chained and sleeping giant of America..."

"Farming, business and industry have made this country great—not government..."

"The purpose of government is to make men free. Their freedom must be economic as well as political. Unemployed men are not free men..."

"The great days of America are by no means done. We have only touched the border of achievement. If I did not believe this I would not believe in America. Because that faith is America..."

There sounds the American Spirit—on a note that the American people have been waiting to hear.

Meat Pies Ideal Dishes For Summer

Meat pies make an ideal main course for summer dinners. Practically an entire meal in themselves, meat pies offer variety to the hostess who strives for this quality, and also admirably takes care of the left-over problem.

Here is a recipe for chicken pie from the files of a famous New York chef.

Chicken Pie A La Ritz

- 1 fowl (4 lbs.) cut in pieces
- 1 onion, sliced
- 1 shallot, chopped
- chopped parsley
- 4 hard boiled egg yolks
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 tsp. of vinegar
- 3 tbsps. flour
- 1/2-lb. mushrooms, sliced
- Salt and pepper

Cook fowl in hot water until tender; remove from stock and separate meat from bones. Add onion, shallot, parsley and vinegar to stock and simmer for 1/2 hour.

Saute mushrooms in butter for five minutes, stirring frequently; stir in flour; add two cups stock. Gradually cook until thickened, and season to taste. Add chicken, bring to a boil, and turn into a buttered casserole. Cover with egg yolks which have been rubbed through a sieve, and arrange rounds of baking powder biscuit dough on top. Bake in a hot oven for 15 or 20 minutes. Approximate yield, 6 portions.

JELLIED CHICKEN TASTES BETTER COLD

For Sunday night supper, serve these chilled molds of leftover chicken and vegetables.

Jellied Chicken Salad

- 1 tsp. gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1 bouillon cube
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 2/3 cup diced celery
- 1 cup shredded raw carrot
- 2 cups coarsely diced cooked chicken

Soak gelatin in cold water for about 5 minutes, add boiling water and bouillon cube, stirring until dissolved. Let cool. Add salt and Worcestershire sauce. Put in a layer of celery and carrot in each of six 5-oz. glass custard cups and top with a layer of diced chicken. Pour gelatin mixture over all and put in a cool place to set. Unmold and serve on lettuce, mayonnaise being added if desired.

CORN STUFFING FLAVORS CHOPS

Inez S. Willson, home economist, suggests pork chops with corn stuffing to vary an old favorite.

Have pork chops cut double thickness and a pocket cut into each chop from the side next to the bone. Be sure to have pocket cut from this side as the membrane here holds the edges together. Fill pockets with corn stuffing. Brown chops on both sides then cover and finish the cooking in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). This will require about one hour.

Corn Stuffing

- 1 cup corn pulp
- 10 soda crackers or
- 1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 1 tsp. celery salt
- 2 tbsps. minced green pepper
- Salt and pepper

Combine corn, crackers or bread crumbs and seasonings. Mix well and stuff chops.

"ASY-TO-MAKE DISHES RICH IN CALCIUM

Bread may be the staff of life, but milk is certainly the fountain of youth! Milk is rich in vitamins, minerals, carbohydrates and proteins—the elements that preserve the characteristics of youth. It is a necessary part of every diet, child's or adult's.

And milk is one of the least expensive foods. In these days of budgeted incomes, it is a godsend for milk provides maximum health at minimum cost.

Since adult palates demand variety in food, the trick is to use more milk in cooking. And once you get the knack, it is surprising how easy it is to devise appetizing dishes, infinite in variety—the new things a homemaker is always looking for. Without their realizing it, your family's milk need can be adequately provided. You can be sure that both children and adults get the nutritive elements they need so badly—and at little cost.

One of the simplest ways in which to get milk into your cooking is in desserts and today we bring you several delicious dessert recipes chockfull of health-giving milk.

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes. Dissolve in the milk, heated with the sugar. Allow to cool and add the lemon juice to the mixture slowly. It may curdle, but this will do no harm. Let freeze to a mush, remove, put in a bowl, add the unbeaten egg whites and beat until very light with a rotary beater. Return to the freezing pan and let stand for 3 hours or more before serving. RAW FRUITS BALANCE DIET

Release from hot weather kitchen sizzling comes packed in cans.

However, with canned meat, vegetables or fruits it is a wise policy to serve some raw fruits or vegetables. Cook Pork Thoroughly Says State Commission

"Cook your pork thoroughly!" This is the urgent plea to local housewives by the newly appointed State Trichinosis Commission. With State Senator Thomas C. Desmond, Orange County, as chairman, the Trichinosis Commission, created by act of the 1940 legislature, is launching a campaign to curb trichinosis, a painful and sometimes fatal muscle disease, caused by a microscopic parasite which infects one out of every six Americans.

"Our commission," said Senator Desmond, "will search for an inexpensive, practical method of preventing pork and pork products infected with the trichinosis parasite from ever reaching the consumer. In the meantime, each housewife should cook pork chops and loins, sausages and other pork products thoroughly. Heat destroys the microscopic parasite with cause trichinosis.

"Pork is a healthful, nourishing food, rich in vitamin B. There is no danger in eating well-cooked pork. You can tell when the meat is thoroughly cooked by its color. When heated sufficiently to kill the trichinosis parasite, the meat loses its pinkish color and assumes a gray or bleached color."

Phoenix Firemen Grateful—Much Money Spent

Old Home Week's may become yearly features if the Phoenix Hose Company members continue the series so well begun this year.

The members of the company under the direction of Charles Rice, president, and Lawrence Benedict, committee chairman, devoted an intensive two weeks to preparing and conducting the affair. There was a series of parades and events as well as a carnival.

The Pioneer Shows were engaged with rides, the Flying LeClare's, a beautiful and well-timed act, with David Logan's War Panorama, special booths of various kinds and a wrestling and athletic show.

There were many comments on the cleanliness of the shows and the show people. Firemen cleaned the carnival grounds Sunday after the carnival moved to Johnson City.

While the Phoenix Hose Company members realized $250 on the carnival and some of the money received at the carnival went out of the community, a great deal of money was spent here as is evidenced by an informal survey of stores, restaurants and rooming houses where the members of the carnival ate, slept and bought groceries. In addition to the influx of visitors on the special feature nights attracted some extra money to Addison.

The Phoenix officers and committees wish to express through the columns of the Advertiser-Sentinel their gratitude to those who made the event the financial and social success it was. They are especially grateful to the Board of Education for permission to use Valerio Parkway and the adjacent lawn on Colwell street for the Flying LeClare's, to the Village Fathers for permission to use South street and property in the vicinity of the village hall, to the police officers, to the attending fire companies, merchants who advertised in their souvenir program and all others who aided in any way.

Wooden Nickels Become Reality for Former Visitor

County Dairymen Subscribe to Record Service

Within the week, the Farm Bureau reports, application for membership in a dairy herd improvement association has been received from 25 prominent dairymen, indicating a new high in interest in dairy record keeping.

Requests for this service, which gives the owner a complete record of the feed cost, the milk and butterfat production of each cow, have been made by Edwin Saxton, of Loon Lake, Wendell Chapelle and Hiram Nelson of Rathbone, Guy Crane, Campbell, Fred Young of Lindley, Andrew Smith, and Ray Thompson of Savona.

Other applicants are W. S. Long of Addison, Leon Lewis, Olin Pulver, Carlton Sturdevant, J. Ward McConnell, Harold Putnam and Spencer Cook of Prattburg, Fred Rial, Sr. and Jr. of Campbell, John Smith and Jay Kniffin of Kanona, W. L. Walton of Bradford, George Whiting, Harold Ordway of Canisteo, Lloyd Allen, Dan Comstock and Francis Acker of Hornell, and Harvey Melnenbacher of Andover.

Tester Checks Monthly

There are four dairy herd improvement associations operating in Steuben county with a membership of 139 and a cow population of 2,540. One day a month is spent by the tester in each herd to weigh the milk and feed of these cows, to test the milk for butterfat, and to compute the records on a monthly basis. At the year's end each member has the statement of the total production of each cow in the herd, and the amount and the cost of the feed fed. With this information he can eliminate the poor producers.

Of equal advantage, the record makes possible the comparison of the production of daughters and their dams, and thus obtain accurate information on the transmitting ability of the herd sire. In that way the records become the basis of the breeding program.

As a result of the present rate of registration, the farm bureau plans soon to organize a new dairy herd improvement association.

Army Recruiting Officer In Addison Friday to Answer Inquiries

According to word received here, Sergeant Burton N. Everett, Army Recruiting Officer for this area, will be at the Addison post office tomorrow (Friday, July 19,) to interview any person desiring information regarding service in the United States Army.

Sergeant Everett states that the U. S. Army is now engaged in its most intensive peacetime recruiting campaign. The large increases in the army recently authorized by Congress has also created the necessity of training thousands of additional specialists in all occupations to occupy key positions in the new completely mechanized and motorized land forces. This need is being met by expansion of existing service schools to train hundreds of mechanics, machinists, carpenters, cooks, clerks, radiomen, etc., where tens had been trained previously. New schools are also being set up where necessary.

For the men who desire to travel, service is offered in our overseas possessions in Panama, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Vacancies in most branches are also available in the Second Corps Area, comprising New York, New Jersey and Delaware, and in the South.

June Milk Brings Uniform Producer Price of $1.56

New York, July 15 — A uniform producer price of $1.56 per hundredweight for 3.5 per cent butterfat content milk received at plants in the 201-210 mile zone from New York City, was announced today by N. J. Cladakis, market administrator, as the basis on which payments to producers for June delivered milk are to be made by handlers under the Federal-State orders regulating the handling of milk in the New York metropolitan marketing area.

The uniform price of $1.56 for June, calculated by the market administrator under the terms of the Federal-State orders, is based on a Class I, or fluid milk, price of $2.45 per hundredweight; Class II-A, or fluid cream, price of $1.65 per hundredweight; and the following prices for each of the remaining eight classes which represent the value of milk used for various manufactured purposes: Class II-B milk $1.362 per hundredweight; Class III-A milk, $1.312 per hundredweight; Class III-B milk, $1.262 per hundredweight; Class III-C milk, $1.072 per hundredweight; Class III-D milk, $1.037 per hundredweight; Class IV-A milk 96.2 cents per hundredweight; and Class IV-B milk, $1.051 per hundredweight.

Producers who delivered milk to plants located in zones nearer or farther than the 201-210 mile zone from New York City, are to be paid the uniform producer price of $1.56 per hundredweight for their milk plus or minus differentials for location. Differentials for butterfat content above, or below, 3.5 per cent are also required to be accounted for by handlers in their payments to producers.

The uniform producer price computation for the month of June involved a total of 647,549,846 pounds of milk, Mr. Cladakis reported. On the basis of these prices which the Federal-State orders establish for each of the 10 use-classes, this milk has a net value of $10,797,972.45. Out of this amount there had to be deducted $782,404.56 for market service claims of handlers and for payment to cooperatives, leaving $10,015,567.89.

Claims filed by handlers for market service payments total $642,339.21. These payments are provided for in the orders on surplus milk moved to manufacturing plants when not needed in the market. Actual payments will be made by the market administrator only after the books of handlers making claims have been audited. Payments to cooperatives totaled $140,065.35, made to those cooperatives which were determined by the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States and the New York State Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets as meeting certain requirements established by the orders. These requirements relate to the ability and the willingness of each of the cooperatives to function in a manner serving the market as a whole.

To the $10,015,567.89, the market administrator added a total of $353,164.23 which represents all of the reserve set aside last month, as required by the orders, plus payments made by handlers through audit adjustments. Of this total of $10,368,732.12, the market administrator is holding as a reserve required by the orders $266,954.52 to provide against the contingency of errors in reports and payments or of delinquencies in payments of handlers.

The milk involved in the uniform price computation for the month of June came from approximately 61,000 dairy farmers in the six states of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut. Under the Federal-State orders handlers are required to pay producers for June delivered milk on or before July 25. The orders for the New York metropolitan marketing area establish minimum prices for producers only and provide for the method under which dairy farmers are paid for the milk they deliver to handlers' plants.

Sports—

The Nine-O'-Men-Who-Were-Not-Good-Enough proved their superiority and that strategy can beat youth when applied at the right time and place. The Old Men beat the Addison Merchants here Saturday afternoon 7 to 6 in a game with all the thrills of a real ball game.

A General Electric Company light engineer states that within 15 years we will be seeing baseball under roofs to keep up the attendance figures. Robert J. Swackhamer, designer of over 100 field lighting systems makes the prediction.

Sumo, (wrestling in Japanese) tournaments attract huge crowds and attendees often appear at the gate 30 hours before the matches open. They bring meals enough to carry them through the waiting period and tournaments.

A writer propounds this query: Two men out, a man on first and a man on second. The batter has two strikes on him. On the next pitch the ball hits him as he swings, at it for a strike, the team in the field throw the ball around and the runner on second came home. Did the run count? See answer at the bottom of the column.

The hunters of Bucyrus, Ohio, are being put to shame by a ten-year-old lad who has shot five pheasants and two rabbits and all either on the wing or on the run.

Germany is even controlling names of race horses now. A decree has been issued that only names considered "tasteful" to the racing officials may be used.

Carl Miles, left-hander from the University of Missouri and Lawrence Davis, Duke University second baseman have joined the Philadelphia Athletics in the American League.

Grover Cleveland Alexander of Baseball Hall of Fame, and outstanding hurler, is now a ticket-taker at Detroit Fairgrounds race-track. The big money was not the prime interest of all ball players in his day.

Joe Louis's sister, Vunies, is a graduate student in history at the University of Michigan.

Cincinnati has given the name of "Tiger" to Bill Werber. His mates on the team call him that.

The increase in bowling in this country was demonstrated by the fact that up to the close of the season this year over 2,000 new alleys had been established.

Bob Feller, the youthful Cleveland pitcher, narrowly missed having another no-hit no-run game to his credit Saturday but missed it by one hit, owing to a blistered finger.

The Painted Post Imperials are still tops in the Steuben County League and chalked their tenth straight victory of the season against the Addison Merchants Sunday afternoon at Addison.

No, the run does not count. The batter had two strikes on him and swung at the third making a strike. The ball was automatically dead after striking him. For if a batter swings at a ball and it hits him on the strike it counts as any other strike.

As this country took steps to make it easier for British children to find temporary refuge in the U. S. the British announced there would be no more children sent out of Britain because of lack of conveyance.

Democrats assembled in Chicago for the quadrennial convention were dominated almost wholly by the New Deal wing of the party which has been calling for drafting the President for a third term. Jim Farley, who appeared to still take his own candidacy seriously was the second big question-mark of the gathering. Democrats were asking each other and the world whether Jim would continue as National Chairman when the convention adjourned at week's end. His speech opening the convention indicated the intention of retiring to private life if he failed to receive the nomination.

Fresh Airs Here For Two Weeks

Train one brought six happy youngsters to Addison Saturday afternoon for they are part of the contingent of Fresh Air children who will be guests of kindhearted Addison folks for a two week period. These children come from homes recommended as in need by social welfare agencies of all denominations in New York. The fresh air and sunshine of this vicinity will benefit most of them. These elements plus good food and restful sleep will work wonders.

In fact many of the children, while expressing a love for parents and relatives, have expressed a desire to remain here for the balance of the vacation period. A second contingent is expected to arrive in a few days.

Mrs. Martha Hagen, who has made frequent trips to Addison, chaperoned the group. She remained over night with Mrs. Elroy O. Hannahs, committee vice-chairman here. She will return the group to New York.

Many of the children are making their first trips away from home while others have been to Addison on previous occasions or in other homes in other Friendly Towns.

The homes which have been opened to the children are: Mr. and Mrs. Joy Mose have as guest Barbara Harold, Mr. and Mrs. John LeBaron have Hazel Bethel who was with them last year, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Young have Ingeborg Hemple, who was with them last year, Mrs. Dan J. Colbert has Josephine McKeon and Mr. and Mrs. James Holden have Rose Lore and Rose Caruso.

This is the smallest group of Fresh Airs Addison has entertained in several years.

FATHER KELLY GUEST

The Rev. Patrick Kelly of St. Catherine's Church, Addison, was among those at the speakers' table at a dinner given the clergy by Corning Council Knights of Columbus Monday night. The council honored five Catholic priests recently assigned to that city.

Phoenix Hose Firemen Win Water Fight

Phoenix Hose members defeated a town team of volunteers in a water fight staged on the school playground Friday night. The fire company team was composed of James and Clarence Kelly, Charles Cook and George Little. They were attired in rain coats, goggles and gloves. The town team was composed of James Beers, Carl Fay, Henry Smith and James Beers. They wore old trousers, wet, barefooted and wore no shirts. The hose company won the venture in two tries. The air and water was cold. Water was taken from the Tuscarora creek and forced through the hose nozzles at high pressure.

Old Tymers Beat Merchants 7-6

The Nine Old Men Who Were Not Good Enough proved superior to the town team or Addison Merchants in an exhibition game played Saturday afternoon on the high school diamond. The fan attendance was not up to expectations but the game exceeded expectations throughout.

Walt McDermott, long absent from local diamonds practiced last week at the carnival by knocking milk bottles off their perches and Saturday knocked row after row of Merchants into poor scoring. And when the Merchants were able to hit, they could not make them good for nine died on bases in the first five innings when Johnnie Flynn relieved McDermott and scored several shutouts.

The Old Tymers played peppy ball and also outshouted the Merchants causing several overthrows and errors. They also made a double play. The Old Tymers scored three runs in the first, two in the second and scattered the others through the game. The fifth was the big inning for the merchants, with four runs.

Two Stolen Cars Are Recovered Over Week-end

Two mishaps marred the Saturday night festivities in the village when two inebriates became unmanageable and borrowed two cars without permission of the owners. Both cars were recovered by police. A car belonging to Ross Bennett was stolen and parked in the rear of the Erie station. It was badly damaged when found. The borrower of this car was not found. The truck of Rush Linger was taken and after a dramatic ride through Main street early Sunday morning, police arrested the would-be-thief and fined him $10.

Wellsboro—Earl White, 13, died as the result of injuries received when a car in which he was a passenger turned over.

Beatrice Lyons Dies After Lengthy Illness

A determined fight for health ended Saturday afternoon in Robert Packer Hospital, Sayre, in the death of Miss Beatrice Lyons, 26, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lyons, North Addison.

Miss Lyons entered Robert Packer Hospital July 1 and remained there for observation for a chronic kidney ailment and complications. She was born in North Addison July 15 1914 and attended school in Addison, graduating with honors from Addison High School in 1932. She then entered Hunter College in midtown New York and was an honor student there, majoring in mathematics.

Shortly after graduation from college she returned to her home here and was stricken with the illness which became a long fight for life. She was in Strong Memorial Hospital in Rochester for treatment prior to her going to Sayre and has been under constant medical care the last three years.

Throughout her illness Miss Lyons appeared about the village and vicinity and few realized the suffering she was experiencing as she passed pleasant words with those about her. The inexpressible fondness for knowledge she possessed made her a pleasing conversationalist.

Miss Lyons was a devout member of St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church and often received the Sacrament of her church.

In addition to her parents she leaves two uncles, William Lyons of North Addison and Patrick Lyons, Corning, and an aunt, Mrs. Mary Connors of Addison. Among her cousins surviving here are Mrs. Michael Karagan, Addison and Mrs. Leon Young, Corning.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in St. Catherine's Church with the Rev. Patrick Kelly, pastor, officiating at the funeral Mass and at prayers at the grave. Interment was in St. Catherine's Cemetery.
